Summary
Base: All respondents

		Statements
		David Cameron's policy of legalising gay marriage is more to do with trying to make the Conservative Party look trendy and modern than because of his convictions	George Osborne, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, was right to claim that same-sex marriage will help the Conservative Party to win the next election	I am concerned that people who believe in traditional marriage could be damaged in their careers	I am worried that couples who believe in traditional marriage may find it hard to adopt children because of their views	I am confident that David Cameron has the determination and powers to block any proposals from Europe which undermine our freedoms	I am concerned that freedom of speech is gradually being eroded in Britain today
