Q.8 MPs, political commentators, journalists, activists and other political figures often come into contact with people that disagree with them. Some people say that those who put themselves in the public eye should be able to accept the disagreements and criticism that comes with being a public figure, but others have said that the criticism often is unnecessarily abusive and has gone too far. Thinking about MPs, political commentators, journalists, activists and other political figures, to what extent do you think that each of the following is acceptable?

Q.8 MPs, political commentators, journalists, activists and other political figures often come into contact with people that disagree with them. Some people say that those who put themselves in the public eye should be able to accept the disagreements and criticism that comes with being a public figure, but others have said that the criticism often is unnecessarily abusive and has gone too far. Thinking about MPs, political commentators, journalists, activists and other political figures, to what extent do you think that each of the following is acceptable?

Q.8 MPs, political commentators, journalists, activists and other political figures often come into contact with people that disagree with them. Some people say that those who put themselves in the public eye should be able to accept the disagreements and criticism that comes with being a public figure, but others have said that the criticism often is unnecessarily abusive and has gone too far. Thinking about MPs, political commentators, journalists, activists and other political figures, to what extent do you think that each of the following is acceptable?
Shouting abuse at a political figure face to face

Q.8 MPs, political commentators, journalists, activists and other political figures often come into contact with people that disagree with them. Some people say that those who put themselves in the public eye should be able to accept the disagreements and criticism that comes with being a public figure, but others have said that the criticism often is unnecessarily abusive and has gone too far. Thinking about MPs, political commentators, journalists, activists and other political figures, to what extent do you think that each of the following is acceptable?
Throwing food or drink, such as eggs or milkshake, at a political figure
