GMC 2016 Tracking Survey - Doctors

G1. This question is about the GMC's Fitness to Practise investigations. By this we mean the Fitness to Practise investigation that the GMC conducts into complaints made about doctors. This includes processes such as reviewing any documentary evidence, collecting witness statements, and obtaining reports from experts in clinical matters. This process does not include the tribunal hearing (if required). This is covered in the next question. How confident, if at all, are you that the GMC's Fitness to Practise investigations produce fair outcomes for all groups of doctors? Would you say you are.

G1. This question is about the GMC's Fitness to Practise investigations. By this we mean the Fitness to Practise investigation that the GMC conducts into complaints made about doctors. This includes processes such as reviewing any documentary evidence, collecting witness statements, and obtaining reports from experts in clinical matters. This process does not include the tribunal hearing (if required). This is covered in the next question. How confident, if at all, are you that the GMC's Fitness to Practise investigations produce fair outcomes for all groups of doctors? Would you say you are.

G2. If the GMC concludes that a hearing is necessary it then refers the case to the Medical Practitioners Tribunal Service (MPTS) for a Fitness to Practise tribunal hearing to be conducted. At these hearings a panel of medical and non-medical people hear evidence and decide whether a doctor's fitness to practise is impaired.
How confident, if at all, are you that the Fitness to Practise tribunal hearings run by the Medical Practitioners Tribunal Service (MPTS) produce fair outcomes?

GMC 2016 Tracking Survey - Doctors

G2. If the GMC concludes that a hearing is necessary it then refers the case to the Medical Practitioners Tribunal Service (MPTS) for a Fitness to Practise tribunal hearing to be conducted. At these hearings a panel of medical and non-medical people hear evidence and decide whether a doctor's fitness to practise is impaired.
How confident, if at all, are you that the Fitness to Practise tribunal hearings run by the Medical Practitioners Tribunal Service (MPTS) produce fair outcomes?
